Edward Eldon
ee-web design

10 February 2014

When our old tired website was due for a refresh, ee-web design was recommended to us by the graphic designer who had designed our new look.

We began with a face to face meeting in which we told Edward what we'd like and what system we would like to use to handle our event bookings. Edward in turn told us what was possible (and what wasn't, given our limited budget) and very quickly came up with a quote and a plan to implement the work. He was also able to suggest improvements to our website both in new pages and as the work went along, in wording.

Edward was able to work within the restrictions of our chosen system to reproduce the design and look that our designer had prepared. He was very flexible and answered all our queries with a great deal of patience. We are very pleased with the overall look of the website and how he has implemented the design to work throughout the whole site. He has also been able to rewrite some of the software to iron out niggles we had with its performance previously.

We have been able to have our new site up and running within a comparatively short space of time and are very pleased with it. We are also impressed that he has been available to answer queries even after the site is up and running.
